Artist Jeff Fioravanti to Appear at Gallery 30 for 9th Annual History Meets the Arts

Gettysburg, PA (March 22, 2006) – a collection of new original and reproduction artwork, by acclaimed artist Jeff Fioravanti, will be on display April 1-30, 2006 at Gallery 30, located at 30 York Street, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, 17325. On Saturday, April 22, 2006, from 1:00 – 3:00 PM visitors to the gallery will have the opportunity to meet and speak with the artist as part of the annual "History Meets the Arts" celebration.

Artist Jeff Fioravanti has quickly gathered a following for his ability to connect the viewer to the lands of our nation in an evocative and touching manner. His deft touch brings to life for all who see his work, the vistas upon which the events of our country transpired.

It is not just an artist's touch to capture the tranquil beauty of our treasured lands that has helped to endear and build Mr. Fioravanti's following, but also the utilization of his gift toward the preservation and conservation of the many places often featured in his finished work.

Through his efforts, he has helped raise approximately $20,000 for a number of non-profit groups and organizations dedicated to saving the properties and antiquities of our nation's legacy. Trumpeting the call for peace and remembrance, protection and preservation, this talented artist truly creates artwork of America for America.
